Thomas is a creative who believes that a good design is a critical one. Never taking things as what they are, being skeptical and always question what is given. With that he dabbles into speculative studies and user-centric designs, always questioning what if the reality we know could exist differently. Apart from that, he finds joy working on projects across various disciplines, from print to digital, to bring ideas to life. Out and about, he is a wanderer who love to explore and capture moments.
